Chapter 1: Ceres

Ceres in Pisces:

Nurturing is second nature to you, as you are an empath. You feel others deeply, which is how you nurture, with lots of deep sympathetic emotion. You are a rescuer and caretaker. This can lead to co-dependency so take care not to give too much of yourself that you lose your own identity. Ceres in Pisces is very devoted to those they care about, positions as a caretaker, social worker, or some creative outlet is good for you. You often feel like others are your soul mate, you are feeling the connection from past lives.

Ceres in 11th house:

You seek nurturing in an unusual way, not too close or smothering, but by being a friend, and showing you care.

Your mother may have seemed more like a friend than a mother. You are very close to your friends and may see them more as family. You may "mother your friends. This placement can indicate step-parenting. You see the world as your mother in a larger scale, or scheme of things. Many with this placement are environmentalists, caring for the earth.

Ceres Conjunct Moon:

To feel emotionally secure you must feel a strong connection to those you care about. You have a strong need to feel cared for. You are especially good at nurturing those you care for, making sure they have all the comforts they need, food, shelter, a nice bed, and a nice home. You have the mother archetype whether male or female, you are a caretaker. Food can be a way you show your affection for others, and was one way you were shown that you were loved. This can be a problem, as you may identify with food as equaling love, this can create a weight problem if not in proper balance.

Ceres Square Mars:

This aspect shows a conflict of independence versus nurturing, and caretaking. There may have been a smothering parent that wouldn't give you the chance to do things on your own, making you rebel in the process, getting angry over the situation. This can translate to family arguments at the dinner table. Food issues can be a problem with this aspect as well, high stomach acids, acid reflux, food allergies such as gluten are a possibility.

Ceres Trine Pluto:

You have very strong and deep feelings about those you care about. This is a good thing, and you handle the deep feelings well, you are an extreme caregiver in that nothing you do is superficial, or in any way fake. You would work well in hospice or in a critical care department in a hospital. You can handle the most intense and even at times horrific situations with ease and concern for those involved. You would do well in the psychological fields, nursing, emergency responder etc. You are good at helping others with their life/death/ transition periods. You have a good balance in your diet, regular cleansing from time to time is helpful, ensuring fiber is a big part of your diet.

Ceres Trine Juno:

You have a lot in common with your other half, and the roles between the two of you seem to be complimentary. There most likely is a balanced between you in your domestic roles, they seem to work for you. Eating habits and foods are shared and enjoyed with each other.

Chapter 2: Pallas

Pallas in Aquarius:

You perceive your objectives and goals in a very progressive way. You are very inventive, and creative in new ways of doing things interest you as the old is boring and outdated. You have a genius mind that can perceive how things can be. You can see the ideal in the future of how it could be, and then the ability to get it there.

You have a way of suddenly knowing things without rational thinking, it's the way your intuition works, your just "downloaded" in an instant the information needed, and then you just "know".

Pallas in 10th house:

Career is where you shine, and a strong passion with Pallas in this house. The thrill of conquering your quest, planning and following through on your strategy keeps you enthralled in your chosen career. This placement is indicative of a Pallas type career; Healing arts, Psychic arts, Inventor, Law and Justice, Leader, Manager or politician.

Pallas Trine Mars:

This placement is excellent for many specialized skills and training. Military is favored with this placement, and would be a great environment for the best use of this energy. Utilizing your perceptive and strategic skills with your physical endurance makes a great military person. Personal trainer, or life coach, dietary coaching, career planning specialist are all good uses of this energy. A surgeon would benefit with this placement.

Chapter 3: Juno

Juno in Scorpio:

You are looking for a strong, magnetic and mysterious partner. You are looking for "till death do us part", type of relationship. You need complete emergence of the two of you in a relationship filled with passion. There is a strong sexual desire with Juno in Scorpio, sex is a must. Your partner will be a strong and silent type, but very deep and emotional.

Juno in 7th house:

Marriage or a committed relationship is highly important to you. You love having a significant other. Equality and fairness is very important. Your life is very intertwined with your partner more so than in most relationships. Relationships are vital to you.

Juno Trine Moon:

Your relationships that are long term and committed- like in marriage will be very harmonious and easy going. Shared vision of what commitment is will coincide with you both. You have emotional compatibility with your partner making you feel emotionally secure in your relationship. Your Mother and your other half will get along famously with each other and there is lots of family support for the two of you.

Juno Trine Pluto:

You attract powerful people to have committed relationships with. This ultimately benefits you in the long run of your life. Your spouse is a very powerful and influential person in your life together. You both have intense marital desire within you that help empower one another. Marriage has a powerful positive effect on your life.

Juno Square Pallas:

You may have conflicts or disagreements over philosophies, concepts, creative ideas or ideals. You may have a completely different background intellectually with your partner which can be a challenge for the both of you to communicate or stimulate each other intellectually. Artistic style and creative pursuits may be another area of disagreement. These can be worked on and in some cases easily dealt with it's just a matter of honoring the differences with in the relationship, and what do you learn from each other.

Chapter 4: Vesta

Vesta in Aries:

You are very self-competitive, and once you have a focus you spend all your energy achieving that goal. Your drive and dedication is even forceful in many cases, you don't lose sight and will fight if needed to keep your goals alive and protected. You can be described as fiercely independent, be sure to be a team player once in a while. You don't sit around thinking on how to achieve a goal you take action and get things moving, you can always go back and fix it so just do it. Sexually you do like to take a more dominant role initiating the act and the thrill of the chase is exciting to you.

Vesta in 12th house:

You are dedicated to spiritual causes and pursuits. You may devote your time to helping the needy, or the sick. Vesta likes being behind the scenes, so this placement is very good, you like to serve unnoticed or selflessly. You may keep your personal devotions secret. Past lives were dedicated to spirituality, and the divine. You may have been one of the Vestal Virgins, a priest, nun, or even a prostitute.

Vesta Square Pluto:

You may have a strange fear or obsession with death. Be sure not to become overly isolated and shut off from the outside world, as it can lead to actual fear of the public or some paranoia. There may be sexual guilt and as a result obsession over it, or a phobia. Learn all you can about sexuality so you do not have those issues in your relationships. Sexual dominance can be a manifestation of this aspect.

Chapter 5: Chiron

Chiron in Taurus:

Your journey is to feel security with yourself first and foremost and not feel you need designer labels, clothing, and jewelry, or the latest shoes to feel that you are of value to society. Those things are all great and ok to have when you already feel inside that they don't make you who you are. Survival issues may be an issue you had to overcome, poverty, loss, and heavy experiences, know you need to learn to relax and enjoy the comforts and joys of life.

Chiron in 12th house:

You have a strong need for retreat, and isolation to an extent in order to heal your inner wound, as you may have no idea what the cause of this wound is, or where it came from, the only place to look is inward, inside yourself. It may have cause in a past life, whatever the cause it is very subconscious and needs to be brought to light in order to understand and heal. This can manifest in you working in large institutions, like hospitals or prisons, where seclusion is the norm. Interests include healing, nursing, counseling, rehabilitation, drug or alcohol recovery counselor, and psychic and energy healer. You may have been a nun or monk, in a past life or a thieving vagabond that made you end up in prison.

Chiron Conjunct Jupiter:

There may be a great quest to seek the truth, as a result of being misled or lied to at an early age. Religion, philosophy of life and meaning may be the endless search for those with this aspect. Belief in Santa Clause and being let down may lead to a loss of faith in what is told to us, therefore not believing anything created a wound deeply needing to be healed. Healing quickly from illnesses is another manifestation of Jupiter conjunction Chiron. This aspect also makes the best out of difficult situations. Lessons always seem to be learned from the experiences and adventures in life.

Chiron Trine Neptune:

You are a very creative and inspired individual with many great healing talents, even psychic abilities. Energy work in healing is favored such as Reiki. These techniques are good for you and would be good to learn to help yourself and others. Naturally you're highly psychic with this aspect especially in areas of healing. It would be wise to learn more about psychic development, prayer and meditation. Creative outlets are also very healing, music, dance, art, singing are some outlets suggested for you.
