Star*Mate Composite Report

Introduction

"The meeting of two personalities is like the contact of two chemical substances: if there is any reaction, both are transformed." Carl Jung

When we enter into a relationship with another person, we become a part of something greater than ourselves, the relationship. We are lifted out of ourselves. And it is through relationship, that we can truly see who we are as individuals, both the light and dark. So it is where it is most possible to develop personally, professionally and spiritually.

Astrology, derived from the Ancient Greek word astrologia meaning "telling of the stars," affords us information that usually remains hidden. Having a clear overview and understanding can empower us to achieve harmony and wholeness through a relationship and guide us through any troubled or dangerous waters. The composite (or relationship) chart can tell us what a relationship looks like inside, where we meet and where we don't. It shows us what experiences are possible together, what is easy or difficult. The composite chart will reveal the pattern and magic of a relationship when people come together. It is special and unique, just as the individuals who are relating, and ceases to exist when they are no longer together.

We long to participate in the magic and upliftment of relationship and we want to avoid the challenges and fears that it also brings. With the blueprint of our relationship in hand, we can gain and apply antidotes to the pains of relationship & celebrate more consciously the delights. Sometimes this means we can grow a common garden variety relationship into an exotic flower that can be appreciated and benefit all, including ourselves. And sometimes it precludes anything happening at all except the chaos of weeds. The choice all depends on the individuals involved, their goals, values and focus and what they do with the blueprint.

There is also a Mystery at the heart of every relationship that is not even revealed by the 'telling' of astrology. This is the uncharted territory of which even astrology can only allude to as Love or Fate.

These are the strengths and limitations of the composite chart and this interpretation attempts to empower you both with the blueprint and tools to guide your way in your relationship.

"The ritual of marriage is not simply a social event; it is a crossing of threads in the fabric of fate. Many strands bring the couple and their families together and spin their lives into a fabric that is woven on their children." Portuguese-Jewish Wedding Ceremony.

Chapter 1: Important Issues and Themes in your Relationship

"Intimate relationships cannot substitute for a life plan. But to have any meaning or viability at all, a life plan must include intimate relationships." Harriet Lerner

Every relationship is as individual, as are its participants! This chapter looks at the very bedrock of your relationship and identifies what your potential is when you are together. Each relationship has issues that need to be dealt with on an ongoing basis and different ways of dealing with them. There are also certain areas of life within which individuals find themselves when they are together. If the essence of a relationship is healthy and positive, there is nothing that you cannot accomplish in life and then the relationship is self-renewing and fulfilling. It is important to identify what in essence you have together that you can then build on. Then everything else is bonus!

Sun in 1st or 7th house in composite chart:

When you met there was probably an instant recognition that you were meant to be together. Your focus would be to function together in harmony. You both have a purpose in being together, dependent upon what you individually are aiming for. Others will see this as a significant partnership and may see you both as good role models of partnership. You will really be synchronized with each other for the good of the relationship and it may be hard to fly solo whilst in this relationship. Whichever person appears to be the more active partner may identify much more with the partnering strength.

Moon in 1st or 7th house in composite chart:

This is a good personal partnership where you will share your feelings and inner life together. You care about each other and the relationship and also about others connected to you. You are sensitive to the needs and demands of the relationship and others connected to you. You are emotionally fulfilled by being in this relationship and it hinges on satisfying both your personal needs. The more receptive partner may identify much more with the emotional partnering strength.

Sun Opposition Chiron:

Being together encourages you both to help others who are having challenges in some way. Through finding meaning and understanding in your own paradoxes, others will benefit. The physical side of this relationship will bring much relief and awareness if focused upon consciously. If you relate more to being the active partner then you may then identify much more with helping aspect.

Sun Square Mars:

Often your ego needs may be in conflict and you may feel competitive about getting what you want from each other. Physical outlets will be necessary to defuse any negative outcomes of all the energy generated between you. You may often experience a lot of anger towards each other and if so it is important to make time when more relaxed to discuss things. If you are not receptive to each other's concerns and compromises reached, there will be a lot of underlying and overt anger and aggression. The person who is the more active partner may identify much more with this volatile energy.

Sun Square Saturn:

This relationship carries with it a lot of responsibility which can at times feel a lot like pressure. You will feel a sense of duty to stay together. However your terms of commitment may be unduly restrictive and oppressive. There is a danger that this relationship can go through the motions (roles) without any real passion or spirit, unless other factors in the chart are strong. You will need to make sure that the structure of this relationship does not crush your individual creative passions. If you relate more to being the active partner then you may identify much more with these duties and responsibilities.

Sun Semisextile Venus:

You are easily able to love each other and both share the same taste and style. You are also aware of what motivates you both in the love and sharing department. The more active partner may identify much more with this ease of love.

Sun Sesquiquadrate Uranus:

Your individual needs for freedom may worry the relationship mission. Others may encourage this; however you will have to resolve it by creatively embodying your individual goals within the purpose of the relationship. One of you will play the role of the more active partner and may identify much more with these freedom worries.

Moon Conjunct Mercury:

You can easily communicate your feelings to each other and sharing your ideas is an important aspect of your personal relationship. You can understand each other on a very personal level. If you are the receptive partner in the relationship it will promote this ease of communication.

Moon Trine Uranus:

You easily incorporate each other's needs for individual freedom within this personal relationship. You still feel connected to each other even when apart. You bring the excitement back to the relationship when you return to it; as a result you can create your own personal rules for this relationship. The more receptive partner and may identify much more with this independent emotional connection.

Moon Semisquare Venus:

Your desire and attraction for each other may tend to stress how comfortable you are together. As a result your ideals in both areas may be irritated by the lack of safety that you experience. The person who is the more receptive partner may identify much more with the discomfort with being loved.

Chapter 2: How You Complement One Another

"Passion makes the world go round. Love just makes it a safer place." Ice T, The Ice Opinion

It feels like a kind of magic when people are attracted to each other, about which we can only wonder. If it is not there, we are not drawn to continue connecting with each other. Depending on the strength and quality of this attraction it is easy, delightful or compulsive to connect. When we are in a long term relationship with someone it provides a pull that brings us back together through more difficult times. It is the desire adhesive that sticks us together; otherwise we would easily drift away from each other due to all the pressures of modern life. This magnetism, lack of it or repulsion is the subtle energy that binds us, or not, in relationship with others. That attraction can comprise of sexual desire, physical appreciation and feelings of love and warmth that are easily accessible. It helps us make the compromises that are necessary in any partnership and encourages our collaborating and co-operating with one another. As a result it is an extremely important factor in the fate and enjoyment of any kind of relationship.

Venus in 6th or 12th house in composite chart:

You care about each other in a service oriented or spiritual (subtle) way. This is not such a good position to have for a love relationship because it implies that your love is not that of equals. If you are in a relationship where you a caregiver for the other in some way, or have a hidden, spiritual or psychic love connection, then this position is appropriate. There may be a sense of mystery or secrecy around your love for each other or one may love more than the other.

Mars in 3rd or 9th house in composite chart:

You need a lot of movement in this relationship, either physical travel or ideas. You may like to communicate and this could be good for a friendship or learning type of relationship. You spark each other off and will be stimulated mentally when together. Be careful if you spar verbally, that your partner's feelings are not hurt. Make sure that you either travel together or spend some time together. You need the freedom to explore and providing for that need should keep the connection dynamic and passionate.

Venus Trine Saturn:

You easily have a loyalty and love for each other which is a good foundation for any long term relationship. You both have a stability and security in loving each other and are not extreme in your expressions. You are able to rely on the love that you have for each other and do not have to work at building trust with each other.

Venus Trine Pluto:

You easily feel transformed and regenerated by loving each other. You love deeply and are easily capable of intimacy without infringing on your partner's empowerment. You feel transformed by loving one another. Together you can do more than alone & others will see you as a powerful couple.

Venus Sextile Mars:

You have brilliant opportunities to express your passion and creativity together. This provides access to wonderful expression of your desires, both physical and aesthetic. Others may help you both to keep the relationship vital and alive with this wonderful energy. Your sexual expression is closely connected to your love for each other. You will share the passion and energy generated by the relationship with those around you.

Venus Semisquare Mercury:

Your ideas and conversations may be at odds with how loved and desired you feel together. The ideals with which your minds are concerned, may conflict with your security needs within the relationship. You both have challenges expressing and receiving love, but by putting work and value in this area you can accomplish harmony.

Mars Conjunct Neptune:

Your fantasy life will be important for your sexual expression and romance will be of high value. There is a heightened sensitivity to each other's desires which can either trigger your passion or encourage you just to fantasize. This is a good aspect for couples involved in a spiritual life together or involved in compassionate or selfless service for each other or others.

Mars Opposition Saturn:

You may find it easy to structure and discipline yourselves in this relationship. However you also may feel that you have undue responsibilities and commitments through each other that weigh you down and decrease your spontaneity. Initially you may have felt a strong sexual pull towards each other but once together you may have to work around your sexual experience together. You may tend to demand too much of each other as regards work and projects so be careful not to weigh the relationship down with undue responsibility and duty.

Mars Square Chiron:

Your sexual expression together may challenge vulnerabilities from past relationship wounds and in your attitude towards your body. You will need to be aware of these issues and work with them gently rather than pushing for satisfaction, then you could both experience a healing. Also communicate in less heated moments about what is ok and not ok for you both, and this will help you both honor your humanity within the relationship.

Mars Sesquiquadrate Uranus:

Your individual needs for freedom may worry your ability to get things done as a couple. Others may encourage this; however you will have to resolve it by creatively embodying your individual goals within your joint projects and sexuality.

Asc. Semisextile Moon:

You will need to be creative in this relationship, although a strong personal connection. There may be challenges between how the relationship expresses and how comfortable you both feel. You will both value the personal dimension and understand what motivates you and others will acknowledge the creativity that is necessary for how you generate this personal dimension. If you relate more to being the receptive partner then you may identify much more with this personal challenge and its resolution.

Asc. Semisextile Mercury:

You will need to be creative in this relationship, although a strong communication link exists between you both. There may be challenges between how the relationship expresses and how you think & communicate. You value your individual ideas and understand what motivates them. Others will acknowledge the creativity that is necessary to resolve this.

Asc. Quincunx Uranus:

You will need to be creative in this relationship, although a strong magnetic connection exists between you. There may be challenges between how the relationship expresses and your independent needs for freedom. You will both value the individuality that is also possible and understand what is motivating that. Others may acknowledge the freedom that exists within this relationship.

MC Square Moon:

This relationship, although significant will experience challenges to its core from your needs for comfort and emotional expression. Your individual feelings may conflict with the feelings engendered being together. You will need to keep a balance between your personal feelings and the feelings you share together and this should make for a healthy relationship. The role of more receptive partner is one that one of you falls into and you may then identify much more with this need to balance comfort levels.

MC Square Mercury:

This relationship, although significant will experience challenges to its core from your ideas and communications. Your individual ideas may differ from the collaborative ideas that support relationship and your styles of communicating may be different so that it is difficult to understand each other. You will need to work at keeping balance between your individual ideas and styles of communicating with a more collaborative manner to serve the relationship and this should make for a healthy relationship. Listening will be a good start!

MC Quincunx Uranus:

This is a significant exciting relationship but you will need to be creative in managing the magnetic connection exists between you. There may be challenges between the integrity and core of the relationship and your independent needs for freedom. You will both value the individuality that is possible and understand what is motivating that. Others may acknowledge the creativity that is required to manage this relationship.

MC Semisquare Venus:

Although a significant love affair at the very least, there will be some conflict with the integrity and core of this relationship and the attraction and love you feel for each other. Those around you may contribute to the love challenges, but you will need to resolve it by creatively collaborating with each other to satisfy both partner's needs for love and desire.

Chapter 3: How You Communicate

"Listen. Do not have an opinion while you listen because frankly, your opinion doesn't hold much water outside of Your Universe. Just listen. Listen until their brain has been twisted like a dripping towel and what they have to say is all over the floor." Hugh Elliott, Standing Room Only weblog, 02-14-2003

"When in doubt, tell the truth." Mark Twain (1835 - 1910)

The bridge that links us as individuals and saves us from our isolation is communication and so it is a key piece to any relationship. The good news is that anyone can learn communication skills if they are interested in bridging that gap. One of the main skills is listening, and of course we can listen not only with our ears but on all levels. And the other key skill is truth telling. These two basic keys are the best foundation for any kind of good relationship and guarantee that you can continue to grow and develop together.

In some relationships we easily develop good communication patterns but in others there are inherent stresses or resistances to healthy sharing on this level. We then have to work harder to maintain optimum communication levels. So when starting any new relationship, it would bode us well if we are initially challenged, to be realistic about how much effort will need to be expended in developing consciousness and healthy habits for the future relationship. Then we can choose whether this is worthy of our effort or not.

Be forewarned that the largest common cause of relationship breakdown is when there is a breakdown in communication. Then the bridge that everything else must cross to link us has fallen into the crevasse between us. Bringing consciousness to this area in all your relationships will pay off dividends with healthy, happy and flourishing connections with others.

Mercury in 1st or 7th house in composite chart:

Communication and the flow of ideas are integral in this partnership and co-operation and collaboration are part of the landscape, unless there are other more difficult aspects. Being receptive to your partner by listening and compromising, when appropriate are important to this relationship. You like to talk things through to ensure that you are both coming from the same page in your thoughts. The only difficulty here is that you may compromise your own ideas too readily in favor of what is best for the relationship, leading to difficulties in making decisions as individuals.

Mercury Trine Uranus:

Your communications and ideas are very exciting and freeing. You both easily find enlightening experiences from your conversations. You base your ideas on your individual thoughts and encourage each other to develop that independence. There is an awakening sensation that accompanies your communications, without the pain of separation or isolation.

Chapter 4: Challenges to Relating

"I love being married. It's so great to find that one special person you want to annoy for the rest of your life." Rita Rudner

In some cases the challenges to relating are easily transformed and then integrated and in others they feel more like stumbling towards the eventual collapse of the relationship! Challenges in life can be important to help us remain conscious in our participation with each other, rather than falling into a state of unconscious participation that allows our complexes full expression! However there is a middle line, a relationship cannot be all about work, but needs an element of relaxation so that we can rest and restore ourselves whilst together. If this place of refuge is not available then we cannot and will not persist with the development of a mature relationship. So it is important that any relationship is not overburdened with challenges and lacking any ease, joy and fun.

There are many kinds of challenges within relationships; these occur mainly in the areas of communication, sexuality, finances, security and trust to name just a few. All these challenges can be alleviated and bridged through clear communication. Trust can be established if you know that both parties are committed to growing the relationship. That is the foundation underneath any relationship, the willingness to go the distance through good times or bad, so that when life intervenes to 'spoil our fun' we have tools and a sense of perseverance to persist.

It is up to the individuals whether the challenges within their relationships are workable and ultimately elevating or whether they are more trouble than they are worth.

Saturn in 3rd or 9th house in composite chart:

This is a difficult position for any relationship because it indicates that there is a difficulty, resistance and possibly a fear of communication. Any communication that is ventured upon will tend to be serious and may be withheld. Because communication is one of the most important tools that can support any relationship in growing and serving all parties, this can indicate real basic difficulties. If you are already in a relationship together, the best use of this position is to have a good sense of humor about any difficulties between you. You will also function best when communication is structured and at a predetermined time and place. This position could indicate a good loyal friendship as long as these simple steps are followed.

Saturn Square Chiron:

You may feel blocked from exposing human vulnerabilities within your relating, due to fear or insecurity. You have the ability to heal old relating wounds that surface when together. At times these may also be a source of rejection or lack of acceptance, and even judgment. You will be challenged to balance both your humanity and need for social appearances.

Saturn Trine Pluto:

You feel an easy strength within this relationship. The structure and rules of the relationship support your empowerment as individuals. You find that the reliability and commitment that you share are a great support for transforming work within your social context.

North Node in 1st or 7th house in composite chart:

You will experience a strong partnership as the pull to be together is stronger than your individual wills. There is probably a familiarity and ease in partnering as well, and a focus on cooperation and collaboration when you are together. You are more together than separate. It feels very comfortable to be in a partnership together and that is the backdrop to the things that you will learn whilst together. These lessons will tend to be focused on cooperation, boundaries and independence individually.

True Node Conjunct Sun:

You will feel as if you are meant to be together and that the relationship is your main focus.

You can work together and will be as a functioning whole relationship. Within the context of the relationship purpose, you will discover the areas that need to be developed or worked upon as individuals within this relationship. These lessons will tend to be focused on the essence of relating and how are as a couple in the world. The role of more active partner is one that one of you falls into and you may then identify much more with this fateful feeling of purpose.

True Node Opposition Chiron:

You will feel fatefully and instinctively drawn together physically. The vulnerabilities that are exposed from past relationship wounds will be brought to the surface to be released and healed. Within the context of this vulnerability, you will discover the areas that need to be developed or worked upon as individuals within this relationship. These lessons will tend to be focused on relationship wounds, physicality, sense of meaning and wholeness within relating and vulnerabilities.

True Node Square Mars:

Your destined activities and sexual expression may be in conflict with your needs. There may be disharmony in getting both your needs met and there may be a conflict of wills. Within the context of this conflict, you will discover the areas that need to be developed or worked upon as individuals within this relationship. These lessons will tend to be focused on assertiveness, sexual expression, energy and actions.

True Node Square Saturn:

This destined commitment to each other may be in conflict with your individual social contexts. There may be a sense of undue responsibility, work and pressure as a couple. Within this conflict, you will discover the areas that need to be developed or worked upon as individuals within this relationship. These lessons will tend to be focused on trust, loyalty and responsibility.

True Node Semisextile Venus:

You will need to be creative in this relationship, as you are attracted and desire each other in a fateful way. There may be challenges between this destined love and your individual desires. You are also able to understand how the past motivates each other's feelings of love. Within the context of these desires, you will creatively discover the areas that need to be developed or worked upon as individuals within this relationship. These lessons will tend to be focused on love, creativity, financial matters and desire.

True Node Sesquiquadrate Uranus:

Your individual needs may aggravate your compulsion to be together. Others may become involved in the relationship, unsettling the security you have together. You will learn a lot together about developing an individual and creative relationship and honoring each other as individuals whilst together.

Black Moon Lilith in 5th or 11th house in composite chart:

This relationship has a soulful connection from the heart. You will be challenged to allow a deep flow of love to exchange between you, which will promote desire on a profound level. You need to surrender to being taken over by Love that may not be appropriate by social standards or customs. This instinctual expression of desire may express also in the area of creativity and children too. Unacknowledged desire and needs for love will erupt within this relationship and need to be honored and accepted when together. You could see this as a wonderful opportunity to get to know and understand your deep soulful desires and creative expressions.

True Lilith Conjunct Uranus:

You feel instantly and magnetically drawn to each other, on a profound soulful level. You are attracted to and accept each other's individual needs for freedom and independence. As a result this relationship has its own context and form. Your individuality makes for a truer and exciting connection between you and normally unconscious aspects have room to surface.

True Lilith Trine Moon:

You may take it for granted how easily your personal relationship flows with the deep emotions and sexuality that surface together. It is easy to accept and integrate these, so that you are capable of a profound soulful relationship. Whichever person appears to be the more receptive partner may identify much more with this depth of intimacy.

True Lilith Trine Mercury:

You may take it for granted how easily you can talk to each other about the deep emotions and sexuality that surface within the relationship. Your ideas and communications flow smoothly with this level that is normally unconscious. It is easy to accept and integrate, so that you are capable of communicating on a profound, soulful level.

True Lilith Sesquiquadrate Neptune:

Your sensitivities may worry deeper, more hidden soul expression of feelings and sexuality. Others may appear to undermine this; however you will have to resolve it by creative clarity about the subtle level and the integrity of your partner. It is important to clarify and honor your boundaries, so that your soul expression of feeling and sexuality has positive outlet and outcome.

Chapter 5: Background of the Relationship

"My mother used to say that there are no strangers, only friends you haven't met yet. She's now in a maximum security twilight home in Australia." Dame Edna Everage (1934)

"Nobody sees a flower - really - it is so small it takes time - we haven't time - and to see takes time, like to have a friend takes time." Georgia O'Keeffe (1887 - 1986)

"Don't accept rides from strange men, and remember that all men are strange." Robin Morgan

We have many different types of relationships. These days we have the luxury of being able to be very creative with all our relationships and can work together to make them suit us as individuals. We have grown beyond automatically relating from predetermined roles. This is truly wonderful as it has the great advantage that we then are challenged to stay conscious whilst we interact with each other.

It is important in any kind of relationship to have friendship as the underlying foundation. The origins of the word friend come from the Old English word "freond" which meant "to love, to favor" and is related to the Old English word "freo" which meant "free". This is a clue as to how to make all our relationships successful, to honor each other's freedom as individuals and to love each other. This can be applied to all business and personal relationships if we want to achieve the highest expression of potential between others.

Jupiter in 2nd or 8th house in composite chart:

This relationship is blessed with an optimistic and abundant sense of security and stability. You will find many new opportunities together to increase your resources and are able to expand your horizons in that respect. You can be materially and/or spiritually abundant together, wherever your values lead you to focus on. Expanding and growing what you value together and your resources will be a strong focus. This also indicates a generosity of spirit as regards these areas too!

Chiron in 1st or 7th house in composite chart:

You are instinctively pulled together on a very basic level. This partnership is involved with the vulnerabilities from past relationship wounds that are exposed when you are together. The relationship has the ability to integrate your very human physicality within the context of partnership. As a result you can achieve a balance and a wholeness that all human relationships aim for but hardly ever achieve. This sense of acceptance and healing extends to those around you, so that they will benefit from this balance.

Uranus in 5th or 11th house in composite chart:

This relationship is about individual creative expression whether through love, creative projects, following your heart's desires or children. You both will value the freedom to explore your inner child within this relationship. Just be careful that the disruptive and willful behavior of your "inner children" does not destroy the mature love that you have for each other. By affording opportunities for creating this relationship to suit both your individual needs for freedom and independence as well as the truth of your care for each other will be a positive expression of this relationship.

Neptune in 3rd or 9th house in composite chart:

This relationship has a very strong intuitive level of communication. You may find it hard to keep your thoughts to yourself as the permeable membrane between each other's minds is so strong. In spite of this, it is important that you practice clear and regular communication to avoid confusion or disappointment. You both may share a spiritual path together and therefore share your ideas and conversations on these topics.

Pluto in 2nd or 8th house in composite chart:

This relationship has a strong focus on security, trust and stability. There is a profound focus on supporting yourselves to feel safe and secure when together. This could mean a focus on building financial resources or personal empowerment. You have the potential to achieve great wealth, within the area that you are focused. It is important to focus your attention on the Love you share together rather than resorting to manipulation or control of each other, or those around you.

Jupiter Sextile Neptune:

You have opportunities to be extremely attuned on a soul level both with yourselves and those around you. Your spiritual, subtle connection can support you both in growing and learning together. Others may facilitate these experiences for both of you.

Chiron Semisextile Pluto:

You can easily empower each other, through accepting past relationship wounds that surface when you are together. You value your basic human vulnerabilities and individual sense of power. You also know what motivates your needs for healing and wholeness.

Ceres in 1st or 7th house in composite chart:

This is partnership where caring for each other is an important component of how you collaborate and co-operate together. Of course there are many different ways that you will care for each other and that will be determined by other aspects. A strong theme of this partnership is caring and nurturing, both for each other and those around you. There will be a sense of abundance and fruitfulness when you are together. However if there is any kind of threat to the partnership around the loss of either of you, then there will be an opposite experience of total devastation.

Juno in 3rd or 9th house in composite chart:

This relationship is subject to roles in communicating and thinking. You may be involved in working together in writing, teaching, publishing or media where it is important that you contribute the best of what you both have to offer. There are certain roles that you may be responsible for where you communicate and think and this will really suit this relationship. However within the ordinary four walls of your relationship, it is important that you share your true thoughts and communicate honestly with each other to keep your connection alive and vital. It is important not to resort to game playing and deception in a desire to control each other.

Vesta in 1st or 7th house in composite chart:

This partnership has a strong focus on work and home and the duties that keep those structures maintained. There may be a sense of duty even as regards your sexual relationship. As a result there may be a sense of devotion or dedication to the purpose of the partnership and a lot of hard work expended in that respect. Be careful not to distract yourselves with work and service when matters of the heart may need to be addressed with love and or passion.

Psyche in 3rd or 9th house in composite chart:

This relationship is focused on thinking and communicating about the human vulnerabilities you share within your love and sexual relationship. By talking about these things, you will have a real opportunity to learn and integrate and leverage the sensitivity that exists between you in this regard. You may both be involved in speaking, teaching, writing, publishing or media work within the psychology of relating. There is a great sense of meaning in being together that feeds your soul on a higher level.

Sappho in 4th or 10th house in composite chart:

You focus your passionate romantic and sexual attraction for each other on a core life structure that you are building together, whether business, home and family. You have deep appreciation for each other as regards the roles that you have chosen in bonding together. Both of you will be role models for marriage or whatever the official bond you share. You may prepare others for the challenges of formalizing their relationships as well.

Eros in 1st or 7th house in composite chart:

This partnership has a strong river of love and desire running through it, which keeps it vital and passionate. There is strong need to express your erotic desires as individuals in how you share as a couple. Others may be drawn into the passion that exists between you as a couple as it is a life enriching quality. You may feel compulsively drawn into this partnership and are easily able to turn each other on. You should be very happy together.

Cupido in 3rd or 9th house in composite chart:

In this relationship thinking and communicating is focused on the physical attraction and chemistry that you have together. You both like to talk and think about each other's physical beauty. You may be involved in writing, speaking, publishing or media work about beauty generally and attractiveness in relationships. Your attractiveness as a couple is part of your creative expression and your thinking. You need to be careful to not be caught too much in the superficial look of the relationship. It is also important to attend to the heart of your love and care for each other.

Amor in 2nd or 8th house in composite chart:

This relationship is based on unconditional love and you can build a sense of security and trust on the foundation of your love. You have a stable love relationship together and your love will be based upon your security in life. You will build on the boundaries that you establish together so that your love life will last. You may even invest finances as well as energy into making your love secure and long lasting. Your sexual relationship will be a part of the deepening and strengthening of your love together.

Aphrodite in 1st or 7th house in composite chart:

This partnership has been brought together by the sense of the fated quality of the love you share. There is also a strong focus on love, beauty and art. Initially you may have been attracted to each other very intensely and there is a real charismatic quality to how you feel about each other. There is a sense of magic or divine power drawing you together, basically you feel as though you were meant to be in a partnership.

Ceres Conjunct Moon:

You will feel most comfortable in this serious relationship when you are caring for and supporting each other. You are extremely sensitive to each other's emotional needs for safety and security and can respond readily to supplying them. You will want to protect and shelter each other from emotional difficulties. Your personal lives have a wonderful feeling of abundance and peace. You will instinctively & emotionally react to any threats of loss in this relationship. If you relate more to being the receptive partner then you may identify much more with this emotional and personal nurture.

Ceres Conjunct Mercury:

In this relationship thinking and communicating is naturally directed to caring and supporting each other in this serious relationship. You have plentiful ideas about how to nurture each other and feel safe together. You can have many conversations about each other's needs for nurture and how to supply them. You always seem to know the right thing to say when one of you is feeling needy. You may find that your ideas and conversations will also focus on any potential loss of the relationship. You find that talking and thinking about your needs makes you feel content.

Ceres Conjunct True Node:

You will feel fatefully drawn together and are aware that your care and support for each other seems greater than just your personal experience. There is a sense that you have come together to nurture and care for each other and those around you. There may also be an experience of predetermined events around the potential loss of the relationship. Within the context of the relationship purpose, you will discover the areas that need to be developed or worked upon as individuals within this relationship. These lessons will tend to be focused on the care and nurture for yourselves and others & how you deal with loss of the relationship.

Ceres Opposition Chiron:

Your care and support for each other may be challenged by past relationship wounds that emerge, when you are together. You may find it difficult to integrate these vulnerabilities in your care for each other. It may be difficult to accept each other and not be threatened by the potential loss of the relationship. There may be an oscillation between vulnerability and neediness and protectionism. There needs to be a balance between acceptance of each other's humanity and your nurture and care for each other.

Ceres Square Saturn:

Caring and supporting each other may tend to challenge the structure of your commitment. You want to nurture each other but it may be challenging to incorporate each other's neediness into the responsibilities and duties that you share. You will really need to negotiate how you want your commitment together to look; making sure that care for each other is included in the ground rules of the relationship. Otherwise you will experience a sense of oppression and undue pressure when you feel that your needs are not addressed. Fear of losing the relationship may also prompt controlling or oppressive behavior. Clearly identify boundary issues in this relationship i.e., where it is ok to nurture and where it is not, and honor those to preserve the longevity of the relationship!

Juno Conjunct Mars:

Your energy and sexuality will be harnessed for some kind of contract or bond, possibly marriage or business. You also expend your energy together, through work, activities or sexual expression. Your energy output will have clearly defined roles which will promote safety for any activity or project and this will support clarity around your boundaries. You will accomplish more together in the world than you would alone, as you will be a consistent force to be reckoned with. This should be a long term relationship where the sexual or work relationship can be fostered.

Juno Opposition Saturn:

You both share some sort of contract or bond, possibly marriage or business that focuses on the commitment you share. You are bonded together, but at times you may struggle with the responsibilities and duties within the partnership. At times your consistency may tend to fluctuate and you will need to clarify your boundary issues to promote trust together. You may project as a reliable role model of partnership to others and if so, you will also need to walk your talk for each other, to ensure that the relationship feels safe for both of you. You have the potential of having a relationship that works for both of you and can go the distance.

Juno Square Sun:

You both have difficulty integrating the contract or bond you share, whether marriage or business, with the purpose of being together. Be careful to pay attention to balancing both your relationship mission and your commitment and loyalty, so that difficulties will be minimized. You will need to clarify your roles and responsibilities and identify your boundaries together, which will help you achieve success within the relationship. The more active partner will tend to identify much more with the conflict between your relationship goals and roles.

Juno Square True Node:

You will feel drawn together as if by larger forces to share a contract or bond, whether marriage or business. You are bonded together but there seems to be inherent differences in your experience of this destiny together. It is important to learn about each other's boundaries and to honor those to develop a sense of trust together. The roles and responsibilities that you share will also be a vehicle for profound learning and tolerance. You have the potential to develop great commitment and loyalty together, through dealing with these issues.

Juno Square Chiron:

You have difficulty integrating your human vulnerabilities with the contract or bond you share, whether marriage or business. You are bonded together but there seems to be inherent differences in accepting past relationship wounds that emerge when you are together. Your boundaries together will need to be clarified, acknowledged and honored, to support you in accepting any vulnerability and to build trust together. You will need to build loyalty and commitment to each other so as to create a sense of safety together. Then you will be able to accept and heal any pain that may surface within the relationship.

Juno Sextile Pluto:

You can easily empower yourselves and make a difference through the contract or bond you share, whether marriage or business. This can be a powerful and transforming partnership, by focusing on Love rather than will to power or control. You also need to identify and honor your boundaries to build trust, loyalty and commitment together. There are real opportunities to transform your lives and others through this relationship.

Vesta Conjunct Chiron:

Within your work and sexual expression, you will focus on any vulnerability that emerge from past relationship wounds, when you are together. Your human vulnerabilities can be magnified, but also understood and healed as a result of the higher truth of Love. Past relationship wounds can be expressed and healed always aiming for a higher and more perfect expression of the service of Love towards each other. The love that you share comes from an appreciation of your individual paths that are brought to the relationship. Through the profundity and depth of the relationship and your sexual expression and/or work there can be a sense of touching and dissolving and therefore transforming you as individuals.

Vesta Opposition Moon:

This is a personal relationship where you will swing from feelings of comfort to discomfort, on your focus of the higher levels of Love. You both tend to have a strong focus on work and sexual expression and it is these areas that you gravitate towards, when you are together. You have a strong desire to surrender your feelings to a loss of boundaries and dissolution of the ego. This drive will raise you to higher spiritual levels and tantric experiences of wholeness and completeness. Those around you will be affected by this drive and may be drawn into your sense of service. Whoever feels more like the receptive partner will relate to the conflict of interdependency.

Vesta Opposition Mercury:

Your thinking and communicating will tend to swing back and forth from focus of work, service and sexual expression within the relationship. At times you will orient towards a higher experience of Love through these areas, and lose that at other times. Your ideas will be closely tied up in higher ideals and it may be difficult to communicate these with each other at other times. You can tend to sacrifice individual desire and this will require clear communication, which at times of stress may be lacking. Those around you may be involved in your ideas and conversations and may be brought into this drive towards higher levels of awareness.

Vesta Square MC:

Although a significant relationship, you have challenges to the very core and integrity of the relationship as regards your drive to elevate yourselves in service to the higher aspects of Love. You will serve, work and express yourselves sexually, as regards the structure that you are involved with building together, home, family or business. There may be conflict because this is a creative relationship and not based on the traditional model, encouraging independence and freedom and a search for the higher truth of Love, you aim for interdependent not co-dependent. Be careful that the mundane aspects of the relationship don't suffer, as both the spiritual and mundane are important for a healthy relationship.

Psyche Trine Moon:

There is a real easy flow to develop personally through this relationship. This is a real soul connection together and you may take it for granted how easy it is to understand yourselves, through the alchemic projection within the relationship. It is easy to commit to each other as you have a willingness to go the distance and create a foundation of stability within the relationship. This stability is kept alive and awake through the ease you have with incorporating your individual paths. The more receptive partner may identify much more with this comfortable flow of personal development, when you are together.

Sappho Square Pluto:

You are challenged in this profoundly deep relationship to try and empower yourselves through your romantic and passionate expression. You can be a powerful force together, if you are able to be good friends as well as lovers. You may also have resistance to the potential transformation through the relationship and if you can accept that, you will learn a lot about Love and relating. You may be in conflict with your individual values and tastes in the arts and may need to be more inclusive of your partner's preferences. You are challenged to allow and enjoy the strong sexual drive which is activated by your romantic notions and conversations and possibly even poetry?

Sappho Trine Chiron:

This relationship is naturally highly sexual and you easily embrace any vulnerability that emerges, when you are together. You are easy good friends and clearly communicate with each other in this flowing romantic and passionate connection. You are both open in any boundary issues and accepting of vulnerabilities in the romance of being together, as you have an easy deep appreciation for each other. You easily include your human vulnerabilities of the body or feelings into your romantic exchanges, such as poetry.

Sappho Sextile True Node:

You naturally feel compelled to be together, through your sense of being comrades in arms and your romantic and passionate attraction. It is easy to be together and you will learn and develop. You also share similar values and tastes in art and aesthetics, so that this area flows too in the relationship. You are together to grow through the wisdom of Love and so communication is an area of great movement for both of you. You may feel like twin souls who have known each other before, as so much feels familiar. The learning that you gain from the relationship will be profound and will change you both, due to your openness.

Eros Conjunct Sun:

This is a great Love and is the purpose of being together! You are touched deeply by this erotic connection. There is an incredible magnetic attraction and pull, to be together physically. You are both challenged to love your vulnerabilities and find a sense of meaning in surrendering to Love. This is an extremely sexy and sexual relationship, where your individual desires trigger you like an aphrodisiac. As the more active partner, you may identify much more with being moved by this great Love.

Eros Conjunct True Node:

This is a destined great Love and you were meant to be together! You feel compelled to partake of this erotic connection and there is a lot to be learned by surrendering to the power of this Love. Your sexual relationship is an extremely important driving force that transforms and empowers you when together. You can learn a lot about intimacy and desire through this relationship, as you may find it hard to maintain your sense of individual egos.

Eros Opposition Chiron:

You can swing back and forth in this great Love which triggers your human vulnerabilities and where past relationship wounds emerge to be healed and accepted. This can be an extremely erotic attraction and your human physicality contributes. At times you can be turned on by this vulnerability and it can be a source of power and healing for both of you. Your individuality can contribute to the magnetism and attraction that you share. You love each other but it runs from a deep, soulful level and may tend to focus on the erotic relationship.

Eros Square Mars:

You are challenged by this strongly erotic and sexual relationship, where you express your love very physically. You can have incredibly transforming, empowering and intimate exchanges, where the unconscious level and your imagination conflict with the eroticism that you share. At times it is difficult due to the lust and passion expressing in your great Love! You do love each other which conflicts with your nurture principle and your deeper more soulful unconscious feelings. The challenge and power you both have in this connection is the vulnerability of the physical, human body and empowering and transforming that through your depth of thought and word!

Eros Square Saturn:

You are challenged by this long term erotic relationship, where you share a great Love! You struggle to feel trust and safety together, so you can explore the magnetic quality of your desire and lust that you share. If you can find the stability in the fire of this magnetic attraction, then you may put structures in place to facilitate ongoing expression of this healthy life giving desire. Even the fact that you are always there for each other can be extremely erotic, and if you are open to the possibilities then your loyalty and commitment is an aphrodisiac.

Cupido Conjunct Saturn:

You have a very traditional and possibly conservative view of beauty and how you need to look as a couple. What we find attractive is usually a reflection of hidden, unacknowledged parts of ourselves! Make sure to also address the heart of the relationship too, especially any vulnerability. It may be very important for you to present a very stable, mature front, as this creates security for you both. You could very well be some of 'the beautiful people' when you are together and you may even be involved in some sort of work that is based on your shared tastes in beauty and the arts.

Cupido Opposition Mars:

At times you can be highly turned on by each other's physical attractiveness and how you appear as a couple. In fact this can be extremely sexy, just make sure that you honor each other's boundaries and integrity. Sometimes there can be a rather strong focus on pursuing desire for selfish reasons, rather than to further the relationship. You may also put a lot of energy and drive into pursuing your emotional ideals and tastes in beauty and art. This can be a highly individual and creative sexual relationship, that you need to forge in your own right.

Cupido Opposition Neptune:

You swing back and forth between feeling subtly connected to each other by your similar values and ideals in art and beauty, and not. Your partner can reflect more unconscious or hidden parts of yourself and that is what can be attractive and irresistible. Therefore it is important to honor this strong attraction, both light and dark. At times you intuitively seem to know what looks right as a couple and you may find a whole spiritual path together. If not, then design and harmony can be very important and you can possess a knowing about what feels right when you are together.

Cupido Square Sun:

You are challenged because you are both strongly drawn together from a deep unconscious level, as you complement each other in attractiveness and beauty. Your conflict is that you find beauty in each other that reflects a hidden beauty in yourself and this seems integral to the purpose of being together. This can be a challenge as it promotes desire and turn you both on sexually too. The more active partner may identify much more with this conflict of this attractive focus.

Cupido Square True Node:

You are challenged as you feel compelled to be together because of how great you look as a couple! There is a conflict in tastes in beauty and art. You may even want to be more like Romeo and Juliet? You struggle with the fact that you are drawn by each other's attractiveness. You have issues that need to be resolved and lessons to be learnt, whilst you are together. These issues will tend to be focused on the attraction between you, which comes from a deep instinctual soul level and draws you out of your separation in your search for your inner beauty as it appears in your partner.

Cupido Trine Venus:

You both flow with the look of love together, in other words you easily make a lovely couple! You easily share similar tastes and values in beauty and art and this is part of the love you share. Also you can easily satisfy your emotional needs for harmony and beauty, which come from deep levels of your soul. Your attraction for each other easily stimulates desire. The flow of attraction comes from the deep instinctual soul level and draws you out of your separation in your search for your inner beauty as it appears in your partner. It is simple for you to also attend to the heart of the relationship and care for each other in ordinary ways.

Cupido Trine Jupiter:

You easily find meaning in your love of beauty and the arts and how you both look individually and as a couple. There is a real flow as you learn and grow from the foundation of ideas and thoughts on this theme. You are easily able to keep in perspective how you view the relationship and you can also easily pay attention and accept any human vulnerability which strengthens the relationship. Your ideals easily enrich the relationship and you can accept your humanity too! You both understand that appearances can be only skin deep!

Aphrodite Conjunct Moon:

You are extremely comfortable with suddenly finding yourselves in a fated relationship. Your vulnerabilities can be taken care of, within this deep soul love that you share, as long as you clarify and honor your boundaries. You have great unconditional love for each other, which is expressed very physically through your bodies. It feels really healing being together and sharing your love. Your ordinary feelings are important and you are emotionally generous with your attentions to each other. If you relate more to being the receptive partner then you may identify much more with comfortable feelings of fate.

Aphrodite Conjunct Mercury:

Communication is profoundly intimate in this fated relationship; you may even have your own language of love that you share together. Your thoughts and conversations are tied up with the instantaneous connection that you feel together. Talking dirty can really be a turn on! Boundary issues need to be clarified and honored through the unconditional love that you share. You may both need a lot of stimulus as regards love and desire, and a sense of movement and growth is important emotionally.

Aphrodite Square MC:

You are conflicted by your fated spontaneous love, which goes right to the very core of your relationship. As you build a structure together, whether home, family or business you need to incorporate the deep levels of intimacy that you share. You are challenged to be role models of a dynamic love which is understood in your very integrity together. This relationship can be intense, profound and transforming and will push you to set and form a container and commitment for this love. You are in conflict, as this is a love on a deep soul level and it needs to be expressed through the body and the subtle, intuitive link that you share.

Aphrodite Trine Uranus:

You are easily magnetically drawn to each other and this love relationship is deeply transformative. You can easily be creative in developing this relationship in its own mold and benefit from the depth and profundity that it offers. There is a clear sense of the roles within this partnership, albeit unusual or individual by ordinary standards. Deep, more hidden soul desires emerge, when you are together and are easily expressed through the subtle, intuitive link that you share. Your sexual relationship is uplifting and inspiring and you are easily able to keep it in balance.

Chapter 6: Summary

"Just because you love someone doesn't mean you have to be involved with them. Love is not a bandage to cover wounds." Hugh Elliott, Standing Room Only weblog, February 16, 2004

"The conception of two people living together for twenty-five years without having a cross word suggests a lack of spirit only to be admired in sheep." Alan Patrick Herbert

"Why is it so hard to find a soulmate? Because most of us are actually searching for egomates instead. We place the most limited and unloving aspect of our minds in charge of our search for love, and then wonder why we aren't succeeding. To the degree that we identify with this false sense of self, and operate on the basis of its limited point of view, we aren't looking for someone to love so much as recruiting fellow actors to take on supporting roles in a favorite melodrama." Carolyn Godschild Miller "Soulmates: Following Inner Guidance to the Relationship of Your Dreams."

Relationships can be challenging & sometimes seem more trouble than they are worth. We are challenged to live our best life & to be the best that we can be! These days going down the relationship path, consciously, can be more profound & enlightening than getting thyself into a nunnery! We see each other through the mirror & reflection in each other's eyes, of who we are & what we are doing or not doing! We cannot hide or delude ourselves when we live in the light of our partner's eyes.

So if we choose to take this path in life we are subject to all the gifts & joys of sharing, companionship, care & love that relating can bring. We are also brought more fully into conscious attention to our own souls & personal development. We honor & respect each other's boundaries & separation so that we can unite with each other in love & compassion.

On a bigger scale the microcosm of our personal & business relationships are the seed of our community, our country & our planet. We have all been brought together under the banner of humanity & our spiritual challenge is learning to live with ourselves firstly & then others in a harmonious, peaceful & respectful way! When seen from this perspective, whatever needs to be addressed in our immediate relationships, will provide a good basis for a better planet!

May these reflections help serve that purpose!

Romantic and Sexual Attraction High Score (118):

Every relationship needs some sort of glue that pulls the couple together & keeps them attracted to each other. This relationship has a high level of romantic & sexual attraction & should prove to be powerful connection. You will automatically feel drawn to be together and feel part of something greater than yourself by being in this relationship. There is great potential for a powerful & profound feeling of finding one's other half within this relationship. This relationship offers the opportunity of great personal development for the individuals.

Good Communication, Problem Solving High Score (127):

The bridge that links 2 people is their ability to communicate & this therefore facilitates understanding of each other. This relationship scores high & therefore your ability to maintain a good relationship with mutual understanding & solve life's problems is excellent.

Success & High Achievement Medium Score (77):

This relationship gives a positive experience of success both spiritually & materially. This experience may not be consistent but by applying a positive focus & working hard, you can do well together.

Longevity & Commitment Low Score (10):

This relationship may not have a lot of staying power, without a lot of work & attention. You need to agree on the ground rules at the outset & keep communication clear if these do not serve you anymore.

Sense of Fate & Destiny Together Medium Score (64):

There is a reasonable feeling of comfort between you both, & it feels right that you be together. You are not totally taken over by this relationship but are able to choose what is best for you as individuals. There will be learning that is possible, that will feel profound but not overwhelming. This is a meeting of souls.

Challenges & Weaknesses Medium Score (95):

This relationship has some challenges & at times of stress requires consciousness to address them. We easily slip into habits & patterns that when by ourselves we can be blind to, but within a relationship greater attention is required. One of you or both will register when these weaknesses are causing trouble & then you will need to communicate clearly & work through these issues together.

"Love is the most difficult and dangerous form of courage. Courage is the most desperate, admirable, and noble kind of love." Delmore Schwartz
